SULTS OF PHOSPHATES ON SOIL

res Compiled at Experimental Station on the D. M. White Farm

S. FISHER IS IN CHARGE

Experiments Have Been Under The Supervision of State College for the Past 12 Years

J. Readhimer, soil expert of Kane county, in his address last Tuesday at the corn show at Libertyville, gave an interesting lot of figures about the experimental station which the Illinois university has been operating now for twelve years in Lake county, a fact that not many people are aware of.

The tract of land rented some twelve years ago by the university is on the D. M. White farm near Antioch, where for twelve years under the supervision of the state college experiments have been carried on with references to phosphates, etc., in the matter of increasing soil efficiency.

For seven years and until this year, Mr. Readhimer had charge of the Lake county tract; this year the man in charge is O. S. Fisher, also of the university.

Mr. Readhimer presented these figures, showing the difference in productive qualities of the soil when cultivated with and without the use of phosphate in the soil, extending over a period from 1902 to 1912:

| Corn, for three years | With Phos. | Gain |
|---|------------|---------|
| Bushels per acre..... | 36.4 | 11.3 |
| Value..... | $12.50 | $5.65 |
| Oats, three years..... | 30.6 | 13.6 |
| Bushels per acre..... | 44.2 | 13.6 |
| Value..... | $10.71 | $4.76 |
| Wheat, two years..... | 11.0 | 18.5 |
| Bu. per acre..... | 29.5 | 18.5 |
| Value..... | $ 8.80 | $14.80 |
| Average all crops (per year)..... | $11.37 | $7.07 |
| Cost of treatment..... | 00.00 | 2.50 |
| (A gain of $2.88 for every dollar expended in year.) | | |

In case of the corn crops, the 25.1 bushels of land is worth $64.25, while the 36.4 bu. land is worth $135.11 or 2.09 times as much. Valuing the land at $150 per acre, the 25.1 bu. yield will pay 1.36 per cent on valuation, while the 36.4 bu. yield will pay 4.42 per cent on the valuation, or 1.38 times as much.

Humanity Much the Same. There is not much difference between the various races. If you went into a gymnasium, for instance, where men from all the civilized white races were dressed alike and none of them spoke a word, it would be hard to distinguish the men from England and America from those from France, Germany or Italy. The clew we have now to the different races is mostly in the clothes and manners and language.

Changing One's Name. It is not unlawful to take another name than your own, but unless you comply with the requirements in the statutes the name you have taken will be only an alias. There is a legal method of changing your name, and in regard to the best way to go about this one would better consult a lawyer or the county judge or some attorney of his court.

Easy to Make Happiness. A philosopher says that the true secret of earthly happiness is to enjoy pleasures as they arise; for that man who can keep his eye on the bright present, while it is bright, tastes the cup of sweetness prepared for him; but we are prone to look forward to dark objects, while we should be enjoying those that are more agreeable.

Surely. "Did you ever notice," said Mrs. N. Peck, "that about half of the pictures in the photographers' windows are of bridal couples? I wonder why they always rush off to a photographer's so soon?" "I fancy the husband is responsible for it," said Mr. Peck. "He realizes that it is about his last chance to ever look pleasant."

REPORT ON CHARITIES

Lake County Is Near the Top in Disbursement to Charity

The state report of the amounts expended in the various counties for charitable and penal purposes show that in general pauper aid the following counties lead:

|----------------|----------|
| Sangamon..... | $40,000 |
| Lake..... | 38,000 |
| La Salle..... | 36,000 |
| Kane..... | 35,000 |
| Bureau..... | 30,000 |
| Peoria..... | 22,500 |
| Macoupin..... | 21,000 |
| Champaign..... | 20,000 |
| DeKalb..... | 17,000 |
| McHenry..... | 10,000 |

In this list of figures, Cook county, of course, is eliminated because it cannot be placed in the same class with the other counties in the state, through having Chicago inside its borders. It is a fact of general interest, however, that Lake county stands so near top in the matter of disbursing charity to the needy. This fact in itself should indicate very clearly that the poor people in this county are taken care of in fine shape. There is only one other county which leads Lake in distributing aid. McHenry county gives barely one-fourth as much.

EUGENIC ACT IS VOID, BY RULING OF COURT

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 21.—The Wisconsin eugenic law regulating the issuance of marriage licenses was held unconstitutional by Circuit Judge F. C. Eschweiler.

Among other things the court says the law, which provides for a physician's certificate of health, including the Wasserman test, is violative of the rights secured by the constitution and that it conflicts with religious liberty because it tends to halt marriages.

The court disagreed with the recent ruling of Attorney General Walter C. Owen, who held that the law did not require the Wasserman test.

"If the Wasserman test and others are not applied," the court says, "the doctor giving the applicant a clean bill of health would place himself liable to the law against perjury owing to his false statements, and his license would be subject to revocation."

Toy Animals. "In all the ages of the world's history children have loved their toys to be in the shapes of animals. Mules appear among the toys of pottery from Cyrenalca, made at Athens; spotted cows from Egypt; a boy riding a swan, a goat from Cyprus, made before the Christian era; rams, ducks, fish, all bear witness to the love of the children of early times for animals in miniature as playthings."—Mrs. F. N. Jackson, "Toys of Other Days."

Character Revealed by Thumb. A short thumb, tapering at the tip, denotes an inconstant, changeable nature, particularly in matters of the affections. A man with a tapering thumb cannot concentrate, and has, consequently, little continuity, in addition to being unpunctual and unable to work except in spurts. Such a man takes up many things, but finishes nothing properly, and often makes others suffer from his indecision.

High Terms of Praise. The late Doctor Dashiell was fond of telling the following story on himself. As he was preaching on one occasion at his old home, an old colored man who had taken care of him when he was a child was delighted with the sermon. At the close of the service he shook the doctor warmly by the hand, and said: "Larry, you's a good preacher, you's a good preacher. I tell you, you's a soundin' brass and tinkin' oymbal."—Christian Register.

Why We Lose Opals. The reason why opals are so often lost from their settings is that they expand with heat more than other precious stones, and consequently force open the gold which holds them in place.

Rich French Possession. French Guinea is regarded as one of the richest of the French West African colonies. Konaiky, the capital, is the port through which almost the whole of the export and import trade passes, and improvements are being made to facilitate the constantly increasing trade.

Good Advice. Mother-in-Law—"The doctor said I was all run down and needed strychnine as a tonic. Now, I don't want to take too much. How big a dose do you recommend?" Son-in-Law (hopelessly)—"I wouldn't take more than a gallon to begin with."

PICKPOCKET GETS WATCH AND MONEY

Mr. F. W. Foulds of Libertyville is Victim of Pickpocket

TAKES $180 AND WATCH

Stranger Was Intoxicated, Walking the Road Mr. Foulds Takes Him in His Surrey

Befriending a man whom he thought to be unable to care for himself on Monday, F. W. Foulds of Libertyville, head of the Foulds Milling company of that place, fell victim to the man's deft fingers and after the individual had strangely disappeared, found that he had been robbed of $180 in money and a gold watch valued at a $100.

Mr. Foulds had gone to the hotel in Libertyville, and after spending some time talking with friends about the place he returned to his home. As he was about to leave the place he noticed a man who appeared to be in an intoxicated state. The fellow came up to him and inquired which way he was going and on being told, asked that he be allowed to ride with him. Mr. Foulds agreed and when his surry drove up he helped the man in and they started out.

The man kept jostling Mr. Foulds and once or twice lay over upon him. In pushing the man away Mr. Foulds from the carriage. As quick as he could Mr. Foulds called to his driver, Henry Eber and the rig was turning used to much force and the man fell around but the man could not be found. Thinking that the man's disappearance was a strange incident Mr. Foulds proceeded to his home and did not discover that he had been robbed until he was about to wind his watch before retiring. At that time he found the watch was missing and also a wallet containing nearly $100.

Suspecting what had happened Mr. Foulds went to Chief of Police Dennis Limberry and told him of having the man in the buggy with him and of losing the money and watch. A search of the community was at once instituted but no trace of the man could be found. The Waukegan police were at one notified and a description of the man was sent to the surrounding cities.

Investigations developed the fact that the man had been in Libertyville off and on for the past few weeks and that he posed as a race horse expert. He was known as Jack Ryan. He is described as being about 40 years of age, 5 feet, 10 inches in height and weighing 180 pounds. He was smooth shaven and dressed neatly in a brown suit and black derby hat. He wore no overcoat at the time.

In speaking of the affair Mr. Foulds said: "I attach more value to the watch than the money and I would give a thousand dollars for its return. It was given to me and I care more for it than for any other thing that I possess." Mr. Foulds declared that the man must have seen him show a twenty dollar bill and that he shammed intoxication in order to afford an opportunity of getting in the buggy with him. Mr. Foulds was quite broken up over the loss of the watch and has sent a description of it all over the state in the hopes of finding some trace should it be sold. The watch had the initials F. W. F. on the outside of the case and on the inside the whole name was engraved. It is a sure thing that if the watch is pawned there will be no trouble in identifying it.

Logical Reasoning. "Why do you insist upon having the biggest piece of pie, Harry?" asked the mother of a small boy. "Isn't your older brother entitled to it?" "No, he isn't," replied the little fellow. "He was eating pie two years before I was born."

Osage Orange. The osage orange is a native of North America and is generally used as a hedge. In some instances it attains a height of 60 feet. The fruit is not poisonous, but is seldom, if ever, eaten, being filled with a woody fiber and a milky juice which is far from attractive to the taste.

SEAL SALES ARE LOW THIS YEAR

Secretary of Lake Co. Gives Out Report of Sales in Various Towns

ANTIOCH SAME AS IN 1912

Majority of Towns Show a Decrease in Receipts over Those of the Previous Year

Miss Marjorie Hucker, secretary of the Christmas seal committee for Lake county has completed her report of the number of seals sold in the various cities and towns in Lake county this year. It shows that the sale this year was not as large as last year. Last year the total amount collected was $783.63 while this year the amount totalled only $578.31, just $215.31 less. Winnetka and Hubbard Woods and a portion of Lake Bluff have not yet sent in a report this year.

Of the amount collected twenty-two and a half per cent must be turned over to the state and national associations, 12 1/2 to the former organization and 10 per cent to the latter. The amount turned over to the two associations last year it was $178.63. This year it was $130.31. The rest of the money raised through the sale of seals is turned over to the county. Miss Hucker announces that the $448.19, the net amount raised here this year will be used in defraying the expenses of a visiting nurse among the tubercular patients in Lake county.

The report shows that while a few of the towns in the county collected more money than last year that the majority did not. Libertyville did much better than last year. Highland Park made an especially fine showing, due to the fact that the campaign there this year was conducted with more vim than usual.

In making her report Miss Hucker expresses thanks to each giver and is especially grateful to the chairman of the seals committees in each of the counties.

Following is the report as made out by Miss Hucker and opposite her figures are shown the amounts of money raised last year.

Appropos. The missionary had just induced the Fiji island ladies to discard those awful rings they wear in their noses. "We ought to sing something appropriate," he said to his assistant. "How about 'Ring Out, Wild Belles?' answered the latter.

Most Serious Accident. Miss Samantha, the presiding genius of the kitchen was relating her experience with an icy pavement. "Ah had an awful fall," she told her friend. "Comin' from church Ah fell on a consecrated sidewalk, an' Ah wex two hours unconsciousness atch dew tuk me home."

VALUABLE FARM IS SOLD

McLaughlin Property at Gages Lake Sold For $21,000

The McLaughlin farm known all through the northern part of the state as being one of the most popular country estates in Lake county was sold Monday and is now in the possession of a Chicago man.

The Thompson brothers were the last owners of the place. Albert and Geo. Thompson were widely known before their death about a year ago and it was due much to their connection with the farm that it came into such prominence throughout the county. It will be remembered that Mr. McLaughlin was forced to part from his farm several years ago at the time that his business in Chicago failed and since that time it has been a part of the Thompson estate. The present sale of the farm was negotiated by the heirs of the Thompson brothers.

Alfred S. Benson, a wealthy pulp manufacturer of Chicago purchased the property and it is reported that he intends to make of it a summer home for his family. The farm consists of about 130 acres of rich soil near Gages Lake and is one of the ideal farms of the county. The property was sold for $21,000.

It has always been thought that the property would stay in the Thompson family as it known that they have expressed the intention of holding on to it regardless of the surprising offers they have at various times received for the land.

AUTHORITIES CANNOT PROHIBIT SHIPMENT OF LIQUOR

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10.—Municipalities have no authority to pass ordinances to prohibit the shipment of liquor into "dry" cities in Illinois, is the substance of an informal opinion given out today by Attorney General Lucy.

"Laws of the state do not warrant such municipal acts," the attorney general said, "and nothing but a state enactment would bestow the authority needed."

The opinion is in response to requests from Jacksonville, which is "dry" territory, where the city council recently passed an ordinance to become effective tomorrow, imposing a fine of $50 in case of conviction for shipping liquor into the city. The city of Eldorado passed a similar ordinance under which suits were brought, the companies convicted and appeals taken.

To Exploit Brazilian Forests. The immense forests of rosewood and other hard and valuable woods found in the southern part of the state of Bahia, Brazil, which have never before had a thorough trial in commerce, have tempted three American companies to begin exploitation. Concessions have been obtained from the Brazilian government and operations begun on forest land abutting on small rivers flowing into the Atlantic.

Where Living is High. Those who complain of the high cost of living would have reason for a much more pronounced howl if they lived for a short time in La Paz in Lower California. Butter is never sold for less than 65 cents a pound and during the seven hot months of the year fresh vegetables are not at all obtainable. Ice which is manufactured in La Paz sells for two dollars a hundred.

Softening Effect of Sickness. There is something in sickness that breaks down the pride of manhood; that softens the heart, and brings it back to the feelings of infancy. Who that has languished, even in advanced life, in sickness and dependency; who that has pined on a weary bed in the neglect and loneliness of a foreign land; but has thought on the mother "that looked upon his childhood," that smoothed his pillow and administered to his helplessness?—Washington Irving.

Eskimos Puzzle Science. No satisfactory solution of the question of the origin of the Eskimo has ever been given. Whether they came from Asia or from North America, whether they are related to the more Southern American Indians or to the Tartars of the great Asian continent is still open to debate.

Matter of Selfishness. Do mother and the girls carry in the wood or coal? Pretty hard job for a woman, but then, some men don't like a backache.—Exchange.

Dubious Syntax, But True. There are more people in this country eating too much than there are starving. Perhaps if the former didn't, the latter wouldn't.

A Man in the Open

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with Jesse Smith, a young man, and his father, Mr. Smith, in a small town. Jesse becomes a sailor, and his mother marries the master of the ship and both are lost in the wreck of the vessel. Jesse, who later is reported to have committed suicide, moves to British Columbia. Kate Trevor takes up the narrative. She is a rancher's daughter who contemplates suicide, but changes her mind after meeting Jesse. Jesse rescues Kate from her drunken husband who attempts to kill her. Trevor offers of grand opera managers to return to the stage and marries Jesse. Their married life starts out happily. Kate succumbs to the pleadings of Jesse, and returns to the stage and runs away with her burning house. Jesse rescues her and returns home. He is badly burned but he is rescued by a neighbor. Jesse asks Kate to go to a place of safety. To his surprise, she refuses. Jesse resumes the search to capture the robbers. The robbers are captured, but later make their escape. Jesse is captured by the robbers, but by a clever ruse makes prisoners of the robbers. They are turned over to a United States marshal who has arrived with extradition papers. Jesse is charged with the outlaw chief's son, Billy. Billy keeps him out of his father's profession. He takes Billy to Vancouver.

"Why, Billy doesn't say good morning to his pinto colt. He was bucking plentiful today, and me spitting blood before I got him conquered. Now just you leave me to tame colts and cowboys."

"Take him away, Jesse, dear." "He bin making love to you, Kate?" "My heart stood still, and to my jealous husband silence means consent. Then the hypocrite in me sighed, and Jesse, flinging away his cigar stub, said with an oath that Billy should be on his way to Vancouver by daybreak."

Yes, Jesse is hard to manage, but presently he remembered about the check, which made him for the first time in his life feel rich. He's too rough when I let him love me. Indeed I had to do up my hair in the darkest of the fireflies offered the dearest little lamps. Besides a little jealousy is good for Jesse. I should not like to see his love go hungry."

Last night Jesse came home from Vancouver, and it being Sunday evening, he read and expounded the Scriptures to the amusement of the three new ranch hands."

Afterward, the night being cold, Jesse had his cigar beside the stove, while I sat on the low stool so that the fumes might rise above my unworthy head."

"The widow believes," I said, "that her boy will get rich in the city." "I got Billy a job."

Jesse's face looked very grave. "At a grocery," he added.

I sighed for the romantic lad, condemned to an apron behind the counter."

"And the young hawk flew off." "I'm glad!"

"To see it this way, Kate. He's shying heads at Ashcroft, the first town he ever seen, where there's a bit of sidewalk, electric lights, and waitresses. I had to kiss the fluffy one to show him they don't bite."

"He's willing to start to work as a millionaire, but don't feel no holy vocation for groceries. So in the end he runs away, out of that frying pan into the fire, the rest ain't clearly known, although the police has a clue. It seems my wolf cub leads some innocent yearling astray down by the harbor, said victim being the crimp from a sailors' boarding house. To prove he's fierce, Billy has a skunkful of mixed drinks, and this stranger is kind enough to take him to see a beautiful English bark which is turning loose for Cape Horn. Seems the ship takes a notion to Billy, and the captain politely axes him to work. He's been shanghaied."

"Oh, it's awful!"

"Wall, maybe I'm a fool, Kate, but seems to be that this young person had to be weaned from running after a woman, before he'd any chance to be a man."

"He's willing to start to work as a millionaire, but don't feel no holy vocation for groceries. So in the end he runs away, out of that frying pan into the fire, the rest ain't clearly known, although the police has a clue. It seems my wolf cub leads some innocent yearling astray down by the harbor, said victim being the crimp from a sailors' boarding house. To prove he's fierce, Billy has a skunkful of mixed drinks, and this stranger is kind enough to take him to see a beautiful English bark which is turning loose for Cape Horn. Seems the ship takes a notion to Billy, and the captain politely axes him to work. He's been shanghaied."

"Oh, it's awful!"

"Wall, maybe I'm a fool, Kate, but seems to be that this young person had to be weaned from running after a woman, before he'd any chance to be a man."

rock into points of flame. I heard a distant shot, and fell asleep. The widow had stumped about nearly all night, weary to the tip of her again and crept to the lean-to door. It was a relief to find that she had gone to sleep. She had left me a saucerful of bread and milk, which I warmed, and it warmed me nicely.

Mrs. O'Flynn asleep is like peace after war. Dressing in stealth, I prayed for peace in our time, then with a sweet enjoyment of fresh guilt, stole out into the sunshine.

I reached the grove, at this cool hour so like a green lagoon where coral piers branch up to some ribbed vault. The waves of incense, the river's organ throb, the glory in the choir of the winds had gone away, and for once in that sweet solitude I was lonely. My sitting is at the root of the great father pine. If he were only there, how it would ease the pain. I needed him so badly as I sat there, trying to make him present in my thoughts. He had gone away, and the squirrel who lives in the widow tree had taken even his match ends. Only the cigar stubs were left, which would, of course, be bad for the squirrel's children. I wasn't well enough to call, but I left my nut.

Close by is the terrific verge of the inner canyon, and sitting at the very edge of death I saw into the mists. It was so foolish, why should I be frightened of death, such a coward in bearing pain? And yet I had better confess the truth, that presently I ran screaming, my skirt torn by brambles, by feet caught in the roots. Only when I passed the place where by anemones live, and beyond the east door of the grove came out into full sunlight, I could go no farther but fell to the ground exhausted. Yes, it was very silly, and that blind panic shamed me as I looked up at the crescent of silver birch trees who hold court at the foot of the upper cliff.

Something small and black was coming toward me, a clergyman, too, and nervous, because he twiddled his little hat.

"Are you in pain?" he asked.

"Are you a fairy?" I answered, wondering. I couldn't think of anything else at the moment, for our lost ranch is so far from everywhere.

"No, madam," he said quite gravely. "I'm only a curate. May I sit down?"

My heart went out to him, for he was so little, so old, English-like me, but with the manner of the great world. When he sat down he took care not to hurt one of my flowers.

"I fear I'm trespassing," he said, "in your royal gardens. May I introduce myself? My name is Nistad—Jared Nistad, once an army chaplain, now a tourist."

"Are you sure," ventured, "that you're not a—"

"Fairy? Believe me, dear lady, I'm a very commonplace little person."

"A humble admirer of yours, one of those who look at the world from the inside."

"Oh, it's awful!"

"Each of them," said my visitor, "seems to think the others quite superfluous."

"That was true. I asked him if any one was there."

"A lady, yes."

"That's the minx," I whispered. "She's a fairy. But don't tell my husband. You know he laughs at me for being so superstitious."

I explained that my dear husband cannot see the minx, that my servant dare not look.

"I doubt," said Father Jared, with regret, "that very few fairies now-days are superstitious enough to believe in us poor mortals."

For that I could have kissed him. "They used," the dear old man went on, "to believe in our forefathers, but faith. It is not for us to blame them. What fairy, for example, could be expected to believe in Fearful George?"

"Oh, tell me more about her. Did she speak to you? She's fearfully dangerous. We had a ranch hand here who went quite fey, possessed, I think. I'm frightened of her now."

"She thinks," he retorted, "that you're a wicked woman."

"Yes, you. She said you would run away, and you did. I am to tell you that's very unwise."

"Please tell the minx to mind her own business."

"What is her business?" he asked mildly.

"Being a fairy, I suppose. I'll never forgive her for what she did to Billy. Besides," I added, "she makes fun of us."

"No wonder, for we humans are so stupid."

"She's full of mischief."

"Of course." The old man's eyes twinkled and blinked as though—I can't set words to it that puzzled memory. He had told me twice that he was not a fairy. "I am to tell you by my lady, that she is not the minx. Winds, waves, and nying things," he said, "are full of mischief and laughter. The sun has room to sparkle even in a tear, and Heaven touches our lips with every smile, for joy is holy. Spirits, angels, fairies, are only thoughts which have caught the light celestial, mirror-thoughts which shine in Heaven's glory. Children, and happy people see that light, which never shines on any clouded soul."

"My soul is clouded. Help me."

"I wonder," he smiled with his old kind eyes. "Have you a sense of humor? Ah—there. Then you need never worry, or run away. As sunshine and rain are to the dear earth, so are laughter and tears to every living soul. Humor, dear, is the weather in which the spirit lives."

"But sorrow and tears?"

"Why, how can the sun make rain-bows without rain?"

"You'll praise pain next."

"That is a sacrament," he answered gravely. "The outward sign of inward grace. For how else can God reach through selfishness down to the soul in need?"

I saw the dear priest's face through tears, but when I brushed them away the mist remained. He seemed remote, awful and beautiful.

"There is a place," he said, "where souls awaiting incarnation, rest, and from that place they come, borne by messengers. A messenger was waiting in these woods, no evil spirit, my daughter, but one who came bearing a child to you. She stands august and lovely at your back, and in her arms the soul of a man-child, just on the verge of incarnation, waits at the boundary of the spirit land."

"The light shined in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not."

"That light is all around you, and I must go. This very ground is holy. Fare you well."

Two days had passed since my dear Jesse left, then through the long day I waited in the house, and the blue gloom of night swept up the glowing cliff. It was then I heard the signal shot from the rim-rock, and told my baby David that his father was coming home.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Locked House.

Jesse's Memoir.

The book of our adventures which we began together, was to go on through all our years. We were too young to think how it must some time finish at our parting, that one of us was to be left with only the broken end, the pity of Christ and every word a stabbing memory.

Since I lost Kate is four years to-night, and in all that time now, I never dared to enter the house where once she lived with me, her poor fool Jesse. Today I unlocked the door. The sunlight, glinting through chinks in the boarded windows, fell in long dust-streaks on rat-eaten furniture, gray cobwebs, scattered ashes. There was the puppy piano, green with mold, her work basket, half eaten, her writing table littered with rat-gnawed paper.

"The pages are yellow, the ink is rusty brown, but the past is alive in every line, the living past, the sunny warm-remembered land of memory, all full of love and glory and delight, and agony which cannot be taken from me."

How wonderful it is to think that a great lady, and this ignorant callous brute shown up in the rotten manuscript, should ever have been man and wife together! When I think of what I was—illiterate, slovenly, lazy, selfish, brutal, meanly jealous, ignorantly cruel, I see how it was right that she should leave me. It has taken me a bitter lonely years to realize that I was unworthy to be her servant while she tamed me. So much the greater mystery is the love which made amends for my shortcomings, made her think me better than I was, a something for which she sacrificed her life, and in self sacrifice became like the great angels which she saw in dreams.

Then came the letter from Polly herself, which sent me crazy, so that my lady read every word of it, without being warned.

"Oplum, Jesse, an overdose of opium did the trick, and paint to make me look like a corpse, and blood from the butcher's shop poured over my face as I laid there. You was no husband for such as me with Brooks around, the man I'd kept. Shucks, did you think I'd be such a puke as to set, with yer dead-line round me, screaming if men came near, with all Ahlone grinning, and you drunk as Noah? That was no way to treat a lady. That was no clench for me as could buy cowboys, all I'd a mind to. Pshaw, it makes me sick at the stomach to think I married you. I only done it for a joke."

"But you just mark my words on the dead thieving, no foreign woman from London, England, shall have you while you're mine. I heard of this Mrs. Trevor daring to call you her husband. She's not your wife, she's not Mrs. Jesse Smith, she's not a married woman, but a poor thing, and her child, what's he? I've had my revenge on her, and you, and I'm coming to rub it in. I'm at Ashcroft, I am, coming on the same coach as this letter, coming to live in your home. If I don't love you, no other woman shall. It's Fanny Brooke, the man you calls Bull Durham, what give you dead away, he, and the news he got by mail, since you let him get off alive, you fool. That ought to splash yer."

"And if I didn't love, d'ye reckon that I'd care?"

"Your deserted true wife, 'POLLY SMITH. 'P. S.—I'll be to your ranch Monday."

Kate's Narrative.

My husband was still at dinner when we heard a horseman come thundering in, the old cardador, Pete Matheson, spurring a weary horse across the yard. Jesse took the letter, and while he read, I had a strange awful impression of days, months, years passing, a whirlwind of time. My man was growing old before my eyes, and it is true that within a few hours his hair was flecked with silver. When the letter fell from his hands he walked away, making no sound at all. I sat on my little stool and took the letter. The paper felt like something very offensive, so that I had to force myself to read, and even then without understanding one word. I went and washed my hands and face, why I don't know, except that it was better not to make a scene. I came back to my stool.

Pete stood in the doorway very nervous about his hat, as though he tried to hide it away. I remember telling him quite gravely that I like to see a hat.

"Cap Taylor, ma'am," he was saying, "told me to get here by the horse trail, so I rode hell-for-leather. They'll be another hour comin' by road."

"Another hour?"

"A stranger's driving. Mebbe more'n an hour."

Then Jesse came back.

Jesse's Narrative.

I found my lady seated on her stool, that letter in her hands, while Pete, uneasy, clocked his spurs in the doorway. I asked if he'd take a message.

"Burning the trail," he said.

"Say, if she comes, I'll kill her."

"Not that," my lady whispered, so I knelt down by her, and she stroked my forehead.

"I didn't catch your words," said Kate.

"Promise," my lady whispered, "there must be no murder."

"Tell her, Pete," said I, "there'll be no murder. I can't let her off with that—give her fair warning."

Pete rode away slow.

"Wife," I whispered—we spoke in whispers, because it was the end of the world to us two—"you trust me?"

She kissed my forehead.

"Tell me," she said, "one thing. Polly was not dead?"

"She shammed dead. She's alive, Kate. She's coming here. Take David away. Take him to South Cave. To Father Jared's camp."

"What will you do?"

"Lock the house before it's defiled."

"And then, dear?"

"When she's gone, I'll come to the cave, too."

Kate took David, letting me kiss him, letting me kiss her, even knowing everything, let me take her into my arms. She was very white, very quiet. She even remembered to take her servant, and the two Chinamen, making some excuse to get them away. I locked the house and the old cabin. Then I made the long call to Ephrata, and went to the Apex Rock, calling until he answered from among the dog-tooth violets. He climbed straight up the steep rocks, whimpering, because I'd scarcely called him once in fourteen months. He rubbed against me, forgetting he hefted eleven hundred pounds, and I had to scratch his neck before we started up to the house, then to the left along the wagon track, just past Cathedral Grove

Why Parsons Might Not Hunt.

An English clergyman may shoot birds without outraging popular sentiment, why not, then, ride after a fox?
To find the answer we must probably go back to those old days when hard riding meant hard drinking, and when spiritual life was at a low ebb.
The "hunting parson" came to be a type of cleric who habitually neglected his duties. It is a happy circumstance that in these days foxhunting need no longer be a reproach because the greater reproach has been removed. A parson who does his work faithfully and well need not be grudged a few hours' gallop in his leisure moments. Indeed, he can do it all the better for the exercise, and win respect for his spiritual teaching by gaining a reputation for manliness and pluck.

Croesus Preferred.

Two poets sat having a frugal glass.
"I wish Burns and Poe were with us tonight," said one. "We could have a rollicking time."
"I'd rather have Croesus here," said the other. "He could buy a few drinks. Those other fellows wouldn't have a cent."

HEART WOUNDS NOT FATAL

Modern Surgeon Operates, and the Results Have Been Satisfactory
Almost Beyond Belief.

There seems to be no limit to the wonderful things modern surgery can accomplish. Recently Dr. Francis Stewart of Philadelphia reported five cases in which he had been obliged to sew up the heart after stab wounds.
All the patients recovered. One of them lived for five years and then succumbed to pulmonary tuberculosis.
The difficulties of this operation
call for wonderful technique and skill.
Closely liable to form and when swept into the circulation the patient dies as if shot through the brain.
Constant motion of the organ calls for a quick eye and rapid, steady work. It is interesting to note that at the present time one-half of all such cases coming into the hospitals are saved.

A Parisian surgeon restored heart action in a case of actual death. The patient was killed by an automobile.
Believing that something could be done the surgeon ordered the patient to be put upon the operating table half an hour after death had been pronounced. The chest cavity was opened in 50 seconds. A pint of blood was found in the heart sac from a wound in the heart muscle two and a half inches long. This blood was removed,
the heart was sewn up, and massage was begun. In a few minutes the pulse was felt at the wrist. The heart continued to beat more than half an hour and then stopped. It was found at autopsy that injuries to other organs had been too great for recovery, which would have been certain had the heart alone been involved.

ENDED SUPREME COURT LEAK

Legal Body Forced to Take Precautions for the Safeguarding of Its Decisions.

"Yes, it is true that supreme court decisions leaked in the old days," remarked on old-time Wall street broker.
"I remember a certain important suit about 20 years ago. It was the great case of those days, as big in its way as the Standard Oil and Tobacco suits of recent date. A week before the decision came down the son of one of the judges came into my office, and I told him that of the nine judges, one would decide 'so and so,' one would refrain from any opinion, and the remaining seven would make a decision
'so and so.'"

"He smiled and went away. Shortly after the decision was rendered, and the matter had turned out as I had foretold, this young man came back to the office. He said his father, who greatly worried over the leak in the court, and asked me if I could help them trace the source of my information. I told him what I knew. That one of the official supreme court stenographers had been selling advance copies of the decisions to a very prominent broker of that time. What this broker paid for his information I, of course, do not know; but it was established that I was correct as to where the weak spot was in the court."

"Since then every decision of the supreme court has been written in long hand (one copy), thus making it absolutely impossible for an outsider to get the news in advance. This explains, in part, why it now takes so long for the court to announce its decisions."

Replacing Delusions.

If the popular imagination is to be come heated to a point where it becomes an attempt at abduction in every "dizzy feeling," or momentary illness suffered by a young woman in a public place, it will be unsafe for a man to offer the slightest civility to any person of the other sex whom he does not happen to know. To assist a woman into a car will subject him to suspicion, and to go to her aid if she faints in the street will render him liable to arrest as a white-slaver.
Anatole France says somewhere that one result of getting rid of old delusions is that they are often replaced with others of worse aspect.
This present phase of popular credulity on the subject would deserve to be regarded merely as silly if it were not for the tendency of an exaggeration of the fancied dangers of the evil to confuse the public mind about its real dangers.

Diagnosis by Electricity.

For the benefit of the nervous cases that come to the doctor, it has been asserted by Scripture that it is just as necessary to know how emotional the temperature is in a case of fever, Moreover, in many cases it is necessary to find out what experiences in the past or present life of the patient produce emotions. For this purpose the patient sits at ease with hands on the electrodes, which may be so concealed in the arms of his chair that he is unaware that the most intimate processes of his soul are being registered as various words are spoken or various topics of conversation are discussed, the galvanometer showing when a sensitive subject has been touched.—Fred W. Eastman, in Harper's Magazine.

Johnson—Well, what's that to do

Jackson—Somebody told his wife

thing over during the past two days, wherein his ideal resembles her. She hasn't found it, and Bunker dines in the city now.

PURITAN AND THE SABBATH

Observance of Day of Rest Undoubtedly Necessary to the Nation's Well Being.

All forward looking minds must feel some apprehension for the mental,
moral and especially the physical well being of the American people, as they see how the Sabbath is more and more given over to business and pleasure, declares the Universalist Leader. No nation can be strong unless it has a rest day every week; no man or community can be spiritually strong unless he or it sets aside and uses the Sabbath for worship of the unseen spiritual power that made and upholds
the universe and its freight of life.
Gladstone attributed much of his vigorous health and his long life to the fact that nothing, not even cabinet making, ever prevented him from attending church. The puritan in America gave the enduring moral fiber to our national life. His sabbatarianism was a portion of this might in him; he reverenced God, he mastered earth.
A revival of puritanic sabbatarianism would greatly benefit this land of ours. Modern civilization would, of course, make the old sabbath quiet, much different than it was in the primitive communities of three generations ago, but we are noisy about many needless things, sports that do not test, amusements that do not recreate, business that does not yield a permanent profit. Consider the old adage: "The Sabbath is for works of mercy and necessity only." One phase of the puritan life has long appealed to us, the fact that so little cooking was done on Sunday. The Sunday meals were prepared on Saturday.
The slave of the cook stove was manumitted on the Sabbath. Could we not imitate that custom and have simpler meals on the Sabbath, thus giving freedom to worship to our modern kitchen bondwoman, whether mother or hired servant?

GET SUGAR FROM SAWDUST

Chemically Prepared Material Found
by Scientists to Be Valuable Food for Animals.

In the course of a paper read before the London Royal Society of Arts, A.
Zimmerman described a process by which sugar might be manufactured from sawdust.

In its natural state, he pointed out, sawdust contains no sugar, but when subjected in closed retorts to digestion with a weak sulphuric acid solution
under pressure of six to seven atmospheres a very remarkable transmutation takes place, as much as 25 per cent. of the material being converted into sugar. In this Mr. Zimmerman claims that he has a valuable feeding stuff for horses, cattle and sheep.

Draft horses in whose daily ration four pounds of "cacchulose-molasses" were substituted for four pounds of oats were kept under observation for seven months and were all found to have increased in weight, while a colt which was in so weak a condition that veterinary surgeons advised its destruction put on 260 pounds in six months and is now in excellent condition.

Then He Didn't Want Them.

Dejectedly twirling his thumbs the clerk sat in the box office of the Frivolity theater. A depressing air of failure hung over the theater, and it looked as though the piece would have to be withdrawn very shortly.
Suddenly he perked up as a counterfitted man and his wife came in, followed by their three daughters and two sons.

"Have you got seven seats in the middle of the second row for tonight?" asked paterfamilias.

The box office man made a pretense of examining the plan of seats.

"Yes, I find they are vacant, sir,"
said he, trying to repress his excitement. "Shall I book them for you, sir?"

"Er—no, I think not," said the man from the country. "If you've got those seats on your hands it seems to me the play can't be up to much! Good morning!"

Rewards of Inventors.

It is not always the greatest invention that brings the largest financial rewards. Roller skates are said to have brought their inventor $3,000,000, while nearly half a million was realized by the man who first devised boot laces. The inventor of the safety pin, who took the idea from a reproduction of a Pompeian fresco, says Les Nouvelles, made $10,000,000. On the other hand, Charles Bourseul, who discovered and described the principle of the telephone in 1855, died poor.
Michaux, the inventor of the bicycle,
ended his days in the utmost penury,
and Frederic Sauvage, who is credited with the invention of the screw propeller, was imprisoned and died bankrupt and insane.

Alabama's Iron Ore Deposits.

The boom which followed the discovery of the extensive deposits of iron ore in the vicinity of Birmingham, Alabama, in 1883, was without precedent in the industrial history of the United States, and the rush to Birmingham was paralleled only by the stampedes which followed such discoveries as the Comstock lode in Nevada and the Alaska gold fields. The iron ores of Alabama, while inferior in quality to those of Lake Superior, have the advantage of being near deposits of good coking coal and of the limestone requisite for fluxing, so that Birmingham, the Pittsburgh of the south, can manufacture pig iron cheaper than any other district of the world.

ENERGY FROM A SUGAR DIET

Experiments Have Shown That It Has a Wonderful Effect Upon the Human Body.

The physiologist who discovered that your liver and your muscles manufacture sugar while you sleep has been surpassed by the German physician, who uses sugar dissolved in water as an excellent surgical dressing for all sorts of wounds.

Drs. Jacques Pansot and Piere Mathieu have declared that when animals eat sugar exclusively for long periods their weight at first decreases, soon begins to mend and then fall away again as the diet continues.
Dr. H. Heald of Tacoma Park, D. C., disagrees with the laboratory findings.
He says sugar is comparable to gasoline. As the latter is the fuel of the internal combustion engine, so sugar is the fuel of the human machine.
Sugar, he says, is the staff of life,
and man can produce more energy
from sugar than from any other food.

A distinguished British heart specialist has lately proved the efficacy of lump sugar in the treatment of a man nearly eighty years old who was dying with a vicious disease of the heart. After all the usual remedial measures had failed one of the maids asked if there was any objection to feeding the sufferer lump sugar. The physician gave his consent and four lumps were given in a little water.
These were repeated every four hours,
and in a week he was a well man.

Dr. Berzeller recommends to one of the German medical societies the use of powdered sugar in the treatment of old, ill treated and neglected cancers. He says the application of sugar to the field parts lessens the disagreeable odor and discharges. Furthermore, the general condition of the patient improves and all hemorrhages cease. Indeed, unless you have had a long experience with cancer patients, you are liable to be deluded into the belief that the cancer has healed.

BRIGHTEN THAT NORTH ROOM

Skillful Touches in Arrangement of Furniture and Draperies Will Accomplish Wonders.

I would advise papering the room with a self-toned paper, light tan in color as near to the tint of sunshine as you can get. Your shades should,
of course, match those in use all over the house. Then make your drapery curtains of tan art scrim, just a deep hemstitched hem at the bottom, and allow them to hang straight.

Stain the woodwork white and give it several coats, finishing off with an enamel or egg-shell finish. For the center of the room have an "art square" made. This may be woven as the rug rugs are or crocheted or knit-ed. I prefer the woven rugs and beautiful solid effects with handsome borders now possible.

Try to have the rose color predominate in rug and articles of furnishing for the bureau and chiffonier, pillows and couch cover. With white enamel furniture, the north room will be far from a cold, repellent room,
and will be a transplanted sunshiny
corner.—Exchange.

To Break Up a Cold.

The hydropathic treatment of a cold in the head is more reliable than any other one which scarcely requires the aid of a physician. It is as follows:
In the morning after rising and at night before retiring wash the feet and legs as high up as the knees in cold water, then rub them with a rough towel and massage them till the skin is red and glowing. In addition to this, snuff tepid water up the nose frequently during the day and sip with a teaspoon a glassful as hot as can be borne an hour before each meal and at bedtime. A few days is often quite sufficient for simple cases and obstinate ones yield if the treatment is prolonged. No medicines are required. If taken in the first stages of the disease a cold is broken up which might otherwise become a severe case of bronchitis lasting many days or weeks.

Just Like Falstaff.

When a man is disgustingly drunk
it is a common thing to say "He's soused." The term was made popular by Shakespeare in Henry IV., where he makes Falstaff say: "If I am not ashamed of my soldiers, I'm a soused gurnet." The gurnet was a cheap fish, and when soured or pickled was a vulgar dish. Hence, "a soused gurnet" was a term of contempt.

Atwell has just been granted a patent on a new toy with he devised a toy is one in with little doll figures are made to revolve about shaft much as in a Morris wheel. Atwell gave the matter considerable thought and is convinced the toy is that will meet with popular demand on the part of children. He expects to be able to manufacture it cheap enough so that it can be sold for a nominal figure.

My surprising eyes are being related connection in the open winter, are having, L. H. Felter corn to the front and claims the championship with following: Taking advantage of the light fall of snow May morning he shouldered his rifle "musket" and sallied forth to ba few rabbits. In course of his trip he saw something crawling about on the snow and upon examining the object he was assured to see that it was a live snake about 2 1/2 feet long.

Er's Note. The above is the exact as Lew tells it and to be polite of we believe it, but somehow it seems a trifle queer that a rabbit should see a live snake on top of the snow on the nineteenth day of January, now doesn't it, unless, of course, there is a good and sufficient reason.

Plum Pudding an Ancient Dish. The exact origin of the English plum pudding is so obscure it is difficult to obtain any information other than an occasional note in records covering the early part of the eighteenth century. It is supposed to have been in use many years before this, but the first mention of "pudding made from flower and raisins" is found under the date of 1711.

Voice Worth Cultivating. Think at least twice before using your voice once if it is well trained, and try never to utter a word that is not clear, distinct and well modulated. Hurred, careless habits of life and a tendency to irritability are responsible for the harsh tones of many voices which nature fitted for something better than to grate on our ears as they do.

His Devotion. "Young Mrs. Pitter tells me that her husband is going to teach her how to skate this winter," says Mrs. Gooph, in the tone a woman employs when she conceals a reproach in a morsel of conversation. "Isn't it nice to see a woman so devoted to his wife?" "De-man so devoted to his wife?" grumbles Gooph behind his magazine. "He's so blamed jealous of her he won't take a chance of having any other man near her."—Judge.

The plan is to deliver these posts and signs to the various supervisors instead of shipping by freight, the contract made being for $50 for the lot. The supervisors are to see that the signs are to be erected in the spring as soon as the concrete is set. The posts are to be placed in three feet of concrete, thus making them very permanent.

Justice in Hayti. The theft of governmental funds in Hayti is very common. If one of the subjects or officials is caught in the act, or even suspected along such a line, it is merely a question whether he lives or dies. If it falls to break he lives as long as the moist atmosphere of the prison he is confined in will let him.

Up-to-Date German City. Furth, a Bavarian city of 70,000 population, a suburb of the city of Nuremberg, has had in operation for more than two years a municipal garbage incineration plant that is regarded as a model of its kind, and which, in connection with a modern system of garbage collection, makes the disposal of garbage of this city not only the least offensive and most sanitary possible, but also a matter of actual, although small, profit to the municipality.

Up-to-Date German City. Furth, a Bavarian city of 70,000 population, a suburb of the city of Nuremberg, has had in operation for more than two years a municipal garbage incineration plant that is regarded as a model of its kind, and which, in connection with a modern system of garbage collection, makes the disposal of garbage of this city not only the least offensive and most sanitary possible, but also a matter of actual, although small, profit to the municipality.

Heathens. This word originally meant those who lived on the heaths, or in the country. It acquired its present meaning because of the fact that at the time of the introduction of Christianity in Germany the dwellers on the heaths were those who were most strenuously opposed to the new religion.

FLEE LAVA AGAIN

TWO ERUPTIONS OF VOLCANO SAKURA-JIMA AND QUAKES CAUSE TERROR.

JAPS MUST ABANDON ISLE

Geologist Okada Asserts Craters Will Continue to Be Active—Official Report Shows Loss of Life Is About 10,000.

Kagoshima, Japan, Jan. 20.—The volcano Sakura-Jima is again active, two eruptions occurred on Saturday accompanied by a severe earthquake, causing the collapse of many more buildings. Numbers of the inhabitants of Kagoshima who had returned again fled in terror from the city. Ashes are falling thickly.

The volcanoes continued very active all day and emitted great quantities of stones and ashes. Numerous explosions occurred and poisonous gases were ejected, making breathing difficult. The emperor's envoy has found it impossible to make the trip around Sakura-Jima. There has been some looting here. The sea in the Gulf of Kagoshima seemed to be boiling and the quantity of floating pumicestone was so great that it prevented navigation.

Bluejackets from the Japanese fleet discovered a native craft containing 16 refugees from Sakura who were in a starving condition. They reported that, owing to the floating masses of pumicestone and the high seas, they had been unable to steer their boat and had spent three days adrift at the mercy of the elements and without a morsel of food.

The geologist Okada is of the opinion that Sakura-Jima will continue in eruption for a month.

About seven-tenths of the island is a desert of lava and the remaining land is in such a hopeless condition that it must be abandoned. Fifteen hundred of the 2,000 houses on the island were buried. The estimated damage on this account is $5,000,000. How to deal with the islanders is a great problem, the professor says, but evidently they must migrate.

Tokio, Jan. 20.—An indication that the loss of life on the island of Sakura may be much larger than has been supposed is given in a report received on Saturday here from an official of the interior department sent to Kagoshima. He reports that 9,000 out of Sakura's estimated population of 19,000 has been accounted for.

THAW LOSES FIGHT FOR BAIL

U. S. Judge Denies Immediate Release to Slayer—Jerome Threatened.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 19.—Immediate bail is denied Harry K. Thaw in a decision announced on Friday by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States district court for New Hampshire.

This is one of the heaviest blows that has come to Thaw in New Hampshire. Aside from the personal freedom ball would give him, Thaw and his counsel ardently desired the weight of the legal precedent which would be given his side if Judge Aldrich had seen fit to accept bail for him, even before the final hearing on the habeas corpus writ. Judge Aldrich ruled that the ball question must wait until the habeas corpus hearing. Thaw's counsel is granted an extension of 20 days in time for filing briefs on the habeas corpus matter.

SEAT LEE, BAR GLASS

SENATE BODY HOLDS 17TH AMENDMENT IS IN FORCE.

Committee's Finding to Be Passed on Later by Upper Branch of Congress.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In deciding that Blair Lee, Democrat, of Maryland should be seated as United States senator to succeed Senator Jackson, Republican, and that Frank P. Glass of Alabama is not to be seated to succeed the late Senator Johnston, the senate committee on elections determined that the seventeenth amendment is now in full effect; that no supplemental legislation by legislatures is necessary, and that the governor of a state has authority to call a special election where machinery for such an election exists.

In the Maryland case one Republican, Senator Kenyon of Iowa, voted with six Democratic members to seat Mr. Lee. In the Alabama case only Senator Bradley, Republican, of Kentucky, favored seating Mr. Glass. Democratic leaders expect opposition from the Republican side before a vote is reached on the Maryland case.

"The two cases," said Chairman Kern, "were vastly different. In the Alabama case proponents of Mr. Glass maintained that the seventeenth amendment was not in effect because the legislature had not met to supplement it with machinery to carry it out and that therefore the old laws were in force. In the Maryland case, the validity of the amendment was recognized and effort to carry it out through existing election machinery, a course which was ratified by a majority of the voters of the state. In Alabama, the amendment was ignored and in Maryland it was sought to carry out the spirit of the amendment."

Glass was appointed by Governor O'Neal to fill the unexpired term of Senator Johnston, who died after the direct elections amendment had become a part of the constitution.

In the Maryland case Governor Goldsborough called a primary election and Blair Lee was victorious. In this case it was declared that the election was irregular because it had not been called by the legislature, but the committee held that Mr. Lee was entitled to his seat because he was chosen by direct vote of the people.

LIEUTENANT AND TEN MEN GO DOWN WHEN SUBMARINE "A 7" GOES TO BOTTOM.

OCCURS DURING MANEUVERS

Efforts Made to Bring Vessel to Surface Before Oxygen Supply on Board Is Exhausted and Crew Suffocated.

Plymouth, Jan. 20.—An all-day search by a fleet of torpedo boats, to which were attached cables to sweep the bottom of Whitland bay, failed to locate the sunken British submarine, A-7 on Sunday. Although hope of any of the crew being alive was long ago given up—six hours being the maximum time they could breathe after the ship sank—the search will be resumed.

Plymouth, England, Jan. 19.—Desperate efforts were made on Friday to rescue Lieutenant Welman of the British navy and a crew of 11 men from submarine "A 7" which sank during maneuvers in Whitland bay. Whether the men are dead or alive had not been established on Friday, but navy officials here expressed the opinion that all had perished.

The exact spot where the little vessel sank has not been definitely fixed. The "A 7," in company with the "A 8" and "A 9," made a plunge about while engaged in maneuvers. Its sister ships came to the surface at the end of the maneuvers, but nothing has been seen of the "A 7" since it opened its valves and dived.

When the officers of the other vessels realized that their sister boat was in distress they sent out signals for aid. Rescue boats were immediately rushed to the vicinity where the "A 7" went down. They threw out grappling irons and dragged the bay until darkness set in, but their efforts were fruitless.

The "A 7" was in charge of Lieut. Gilbert M. Welman, who had as an aid another officer. A number of the seamen aboard were making their first trip in a submarine.

The cause of the accident is not known. Whether the submarine's machinery became disabled or whether it tore a hole in itself on some sunken object is not known.

The "A 7" is the sixth submarine of class "A" which has come to grief, and the question is raised whether the government ought not to abandon this type of boat in favor of the more modern vessels of the "C" and "D" classes. The "A 7" was built in 1904. Of the class "A" submarines which have caused the British government losses in men through accident were the "A 1," wrecked in 1904, on board which 12 men were drowned; the "A 5," in 1905, with a loss of four lives; the "A 8" in 1906, when 15 men perished, and the "A 3" in 1912, when 11 officers and seamen went to their doom.

7 SLAIN IN FIGHT

JUDGE J. R. THOMAS KILLED IN BATTLE WITH CONVICTS AT McALESTER, OKLA.

PRISONERS SHOT TO DEATH

Desperadoes Capture Woman and Use Her as Shield in Flight From Prison in Buggy—Posse Expires Terminates Them.

McAlester, Okla., Jan. 21.—Seven men are dead and one woman injured as the result of an attempt on the part of three prisoners to escape from the state penitentiary here on Monday.

The dead: P. C. Oates, deputy sheriff. P. C. Godfrey, guard. H. H. Decover, Bertillon man. Judge John R. Thomas, formerly congressman from Illinois. China Reed, prisoner. Tom Lane, prisoner. Charles Kuntz, prisoner.

The injured: Miss Mary Foster, prison stenographer; shot in leg. J. W. Martin, turnkey; shot in cheek.

C. B. Woods, guard; shot in arm. Judge Thomas, a Muskogee attorney, was formerly congressman from Illinois, a federal judge and a member of the state code commission. He served five terms in congress from the Egypt (Ill.) district.

Reed, Lane and Kuntz, the three prisoners, stormed the guard, shooting the three prison officials and Judge Thomas, who was in the penitentiary consulting a client.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced F. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the latter a penitentiary stenographer, to go with them to a buggy near the penitentiary and got in. A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. She fainted in the buggy. An alarm was sounded and guards on horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of gunmen. Before the prisoners had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death. Gov. Lee Cruce was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them into the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskogee. As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates. Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as breastworks for the prisoners. At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death. While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle. Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

RAIL STRIKE OF 5,000 ENDS

Delaware & Hudson Officials Submit to Union After Walkout Paralyzes System—Federal Mediator Agent.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The strike on the Delaware & Hudson, which began on Monday morning and by noon tied up the entire system, was settled at night. Railroad officials met the union's demands that they restore two discharged employees, James A. Lynch, an engineer, and F. A. Slade, a conductor, to their former positions. All strikers will return to duty at once. Five thousand were involved in the walkout.

G. W. W. Hanger, a member of the federal board of mediation and conciliation, brought about the agreement. A settlement was reached only after Mr. Hanger had suggested to the company officials that they yield to the demands of the men. Arbitration, he declared, was impossible.

As soon as Clifford S. Sims, vice-president and general manager of the railway, and union officials had signed the agreement orders were sent out for men to report for work as quickly as possible. Many crews that had been tied up at terminal points were notified by telegraph to resume their runs without reporting here.

Early on Monday the first body of men walked out. From then until noon engineers, conductors, trainmen, telegraph operators and towmen gradually quit, as the safety of passengers would permit. At noon it was estimated that 5,000 men were out, and the entire system was paralyzed. Shop workers and office employees alone remained on duty.

Aeroplane Keeps Memento.

All that is left of the little Wright biplane with which Calhoun P. Rodgers flew from the Atlantic to the Pacific two years ago is to be presented to the Carnegie museum at Pittsburgh by the late aviator's heirs. The machine was badly damaged when Rodgers fell from his plane in the Pacific ocean a short time after completing his wonderful flight. Subsequently it was used by Andrew Drew until that aviator also was killed with it. The machine has been restored to its original condition. Both Rodgers' and Fowler's Wright machines have motors of but 30-horsepower, yet they flew across the continent in opposite directions at a time when the aeroplane had not been equipped with the 100-horsepower motor of today, which makes it much more stable, nor had it developed anywhere near the speed of which it has since shown itself to be capable.

Price of Realty in Rome.

In the big cities of the Old World the highest value seems to belong to a property in Rome. Here is where a value of $450 a square foot is found, and the land is not used for an income-producing building, but includes the property of the German embassy to Italy. Business property in Rome does not bring nearly this high price. In the principal centers of offices and shops values do not mount much above $200 a square foot.

WONDERED WHY. Found the Answer Was "Coffee."

Many pale, sickly persons wonder for years why they have to suffer so, and eventually discover that the drug—caffeine—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much flesh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak."

"About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was confined to my bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life."

"During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it."

"After awhile I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum. When it did me right—dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it."

"In one week I began to feel better. I could eat more and sleep better. My sick headaches were less frequent, and within five months I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone."

"My health continued to improve and today I am well and strong, weigh 148 lbs. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Enemy of the Book Lover.

One of the most common of the book destroyers is the bread borer, which is found in libraries and in rye bread. It is half an inch long, downy, light brown in color and striped lengthwise. It lays its eggs between the leaves of books and in chinks in the covers. The young hatch in five or six days and the larvae at once bores long narrow tunnels through paper, leather and wood of the binding.

Topic of the sermon next Sunday: "What is the use of Prayer?"

Palms Grow Over Buried City.

Over the site of the ancient city of Memphis, once the fair city of the world, now buried by a thick deposit of Nile mud, stand stately palms, which yield a luscious fruit. Over the city the peasant Egyptians carry on their agricultural pursuits, and the palms yield the entire food of the peasants during large parts of the year.

Wrong Impression Corrected.

Some people think an owl's silence the sign of wisdom. Huh-uh. Language is intended to conceal thought. The man without a thought needs no language with which to conceal it, so he just doesn't use it.

Things He Wants—and Doesn't Get.

"Man would be much happier if he only knew what he wanted," says a Louisville minister. And knowing that, he would be worried considerably less if he had sense enough to know that nine times out of ten he isn't going to get it.

Cause of Worry Defined.

Worry medical science now defines as the dominance of one idea, usually that of fear. There is a fear of some existing condition or dread of what may happen. The idea crowds all others from the mind, or permits them only the feeblest and occasional activity. The most terrible tyranny is the tyranny of an idea.

Evolution in Flying.

One of the most interesting exhibits in the British museum is a collection of birds, showing the gradual evolution of flying creatures, from the pterodactyl to the pigeon. The purpose of the display is to provide aviators and designers of aerial craft with useful object lessons. An equally interesting exhibit is that of burrowing animals, which has been installed with the idea that mining engineers may profit thereby.

Work of Supererogation.

Johnson had just recovered from one of his periodical sprees to which he was addicted. During the sobering off process he met the village Good Samaritan who had often helped him over the rough places in his almost worthless life. Shamefaced and in a repentant mood he confessed: "Well, Miss Polly, I certainly have been making a fool of myself again. I found I didn't have to make many alterations to complete the job."

Keep Conscience Clear.

If you sell your conscience to interest, you traffic with a friend—Beecher.

Offended Esthetic Taste.

"The natural refinement of the feminine character cannot be wholly subdued," said one London policeman. "Just so," replied the other. "What has happened now?" "A militant suffragette has turned a bomb into police headquarters. It was a perfectly good bomb, but she didn't approve of its hand decorations."—Washington Star.

Observe here is a form of harnessed energy that may be visualized in a 90 pound machine which will go on hour after hour yielding a power that six strong men could not equal for more than a very short time. Contrast the wages of the men—if they could prolong the strain—with the trivial cost of running the machine. That's

Electric Power

It's the modern realization of the Arabian genie—a giant that responds at the touch of a button with the strength needed to do the work. The big thing about it—and too much emphasis can't be given the fact—is that it manifests its efficiency, economy and all round satisfying quality anywhere.

Knowledge of the Ancients.

From various prehistoric implements and ornaments found in Egypt, Professor Handcock, an Englishman, has concluded that the ancient peoples of that land used face paint; that the early pre-dynastic Egyptians were a neolithic people, having been skilled in the making of flints and very early learning the use of copper and gold, and that from the earliest times they knew how to navigate sailing boats and rowboats.

Reason in Animals.

Despite the claims of many animal lovers scientists as a rule insist that there is no absolute evidence that animals reason. They admit, however, that as yet they are far from understanding the transmission of animal instinct, or the habits of ants, bees and even higher animals that indicate capacity to reason. It may be many centuries before this question shall be definitely determined.

REGIMENTAL COLOR PAWN

Odd Experiences of British Emblem Once Greatly Prized Those Who Carried Them

The discovery of the long color of the old 50th regiment 1st Guards of Funtin house, near Chester, is a reminder of the struggles that have befallen so many of these glorious military emblems, when the bits remain. The colors the 1st foot—since disbanded—were captured by American pirates during the war of Independence and hidden in Ireland; the colors of the 9th regiment were deliberately burned to the surrender at Saratoga to prevent their capture by the enemy.

At Bergen-op-Zoom the Royal Scots, to save their precious colors from falling into French hands, sank them deep in a river, though the enemy later fished them out; and when the second battalion of the 8th foot was disbanded at Portsmouth in 1811 the colors were cut into small pieces and distributed among the officers.

One of the colors of the 1st Northamptonshire regiment, which had been carried through the peninsular campaign, is discovered some years ago in a pawn broker's shop, though how it got there is a mystery to this day. A star uncertainty attaches to a pair of colors of the 2d Border regiment which were recovered from a pawn broker, who was offering them for sale, by Lord Archibald Campbell in 1888.

Four years later four colors which had accompanied the Gloucester regiment in 1848 and in the peninsula were recovered from a York pawnbroker. It is said that, having been bequeathed an old colonel of the regiment to his son, they were ultimately secured by a servant, who, falling on evil days, pawned them for a few shillings.

SEVILLE ALL HAS CARMENS

Thousands of the Pictureque Charming Little Girls Are Envyed There.

The most striking building in the Calle de San Fernando is the immense two-story baroque edifice that covers more than the cathedral plus the art of oranges, and serves the purpose of a tobacco factory. The portal is adorned with busts of Columbus and Vasco Cortes, and I wish very much that we had had time to go inside to see these many cigarette girls at work. As we passed I thought in of Carmen and the story of Bizet's fantastic Sevillian opera, for about 1000 Carmens, or "cigarreras," like Carmen, are employed in this factory and attire themselves today with the most under their hair, very much like the heroine of the opera. Like the opera, also, adjoining the factory are the artillery barracks, and one imagines it to be quite possible that some impressionable Don Jose should be fascinated by some of these plump and Pretty Carmens.—From "Spain of Today," by Mrs. T. Bates-Batcheller.

See Value of Exercise.

There is no doubt that exercise is a good thing for those who do not get it, but to many the daily use of dumb-bells, weights and similar apparatus grows irksome, the reason being a lack of stimulation owing to the fact that the person taking the exercise sees nothing accomplished as the result of the work and time spent. Gladstone preferred to work at the woodpile, and here and there was the constantly maintained interest of seeing the pile increase after each period of action. The same has been accomplished in a real up-to-the-moment manner by a French inventor who has taken an exercising machine which is rather familiar in the shape of a bicycle on a permanent stand, and he has combined this with a storage battery. When the various members of the family are taking their daily exercise on this machine they are storing up current to be used in the form of illuminant after nightfall.

Architects Held to Account.

It is unusual for a house, however small, to be erected in France without the service of an architect, who not only draws the plans, but actually superintends the work. Usually it is he who orders the building material and assures himself that its quality is up to specifications and requirements. The contractor and his workmen perform their duties in conformity with the architect's orders, and the latter, who is usually a man of capital, advances the funds required in order that the contractor need not wait for payment until the building is completed. Moreover, the French law imposes on the architect a serious responsibility, since he, as well as the contractor, is responsible for all defects of construction during a period of ten years.

Lame-Sickness Caused by Plants.

An investigation of the South African disease known as lamiekette, or lame-sickness, suggests that it is due to a special plant poison that is generated under abnormal conditions in grasses or other plants that are normally harmless. Its development seems to be associated with unusual weather and soil experiences, of which summer drought is important. Through such conditions, which would favor the formation of the poison, and this gives explanation of the common belief that the disease results from eating wilted plants.
